

PROJECT BRIEF

Vitalida Physio & Ostéo

What the client is asking for

A complete, sourced record of what Alida Farrell, physiotherapist and osteopath, is asking for in the rebuild of her website. Every point carries her exact words and the date she wrote them.

Compiled September 8, 2026. Eighteen emails received between August 24 and September 8, plus one request submitted through the site's revision form on September 6. The spam folders of both forms were checked: nothing else.

Her words are quoted in French, as she wrote them, with the English underneath. The exact wording matters: several of these requests hinge on a single word.

1 The professional constraints

These do not come from her but from her profession. They apply to all content on the site.

- She is a physiotherapist and a member of the Quebec professional order of physiotherapy. Her advertising is regulated: it must be accurate and complete, and promoting anything as free is not allowed.
- She is also an osteopath and a life coach. Neither of those titles falls under a professional order, which still does not permit the use of restricted clinical vocabulary.
- Words that must never appear on the site: healing, diagnosis, patient, and any promise of a result. Her own words are assessment and treatment.
- Her coaching deck, written in English, contains American market phrasing (heal your body and mind, financial freedom, be the CEO of your life). None of it can be carried over as is onto a site that also carries a professional governed by an order.

- The site addresses the reader formally, the way she does with her own clients.

2 Her correction requests

She reviewed the first version and asked for these changes. They concern existing content: images, a piece of copy, a list of services.

Photos of her clinic

Replace the treatment room photos with her own.

« Pour les photos du bureau, ce n'est plus mon bureau. Je devrai t'envoyer de nouvelles photos. »

TRANSLATION:

As for the office photos, that is no longer my office. I will have to send you new ones.

Email, September 6, 3:12 pm

Five photos attached to specific sections

She clicked five images on the site and attached a replacement to each one.

« Si possible couper le désordre derrière le pied »

TRANSLATION:

If possible, crop out the clutter behind the foot.

Revision form, September 6, 3:37 pm

The wording about care for women

Her phrasing replaces ours, word for word.

« Pour les femmes: après un accouchement, en périmenopause ou plus tard, pour des problèmes de fréquence ou urgence urinaire, fuites... »

TRANSLATION:

For women: after childbirth, during perimenopause or later, for problems of urinary frequency or urgency, leaks...

Revision form, September 6

Her opening hours

No hours existed on the new site, nor on her old one.

« Mes heures d'ouverture 8:30-20h lundi et mercredi, vendredi 8:30-15:30, 11-19h les mardis, jeudi 8-16h »

TRANSLATION:

My opening hours: 8:30 to 20:00 Monday and Wednesday, Friday 8:30 to 15:30, 11:00 to 19:00 Tuesdays, Thursday 8:00 to 16:00.

Email, September 6, 3:12 pm

The yoga on a rock photo

She rejects it. She was looking for an alternative herself.

« Le yogi sur la roche je ne pense qu'on peut faire beaucoup mieux. Je regarde des photos stock de mountain pose. Si tu as d'autres sources je suis ouverte. »

TRANSLATION:

The yogi on the rock, I think we can do much better. I am looking at stock photos of mountain pose. If you have other sources I am open to them.

Email, September 6, 2:03 pm

The river and kayaks photo

She offers four of her own photos to replace it.

« Je ne trippe pas sur certaines photos, je te propose des alternatives pour la rivière avec le kayak. »

TRANSLATION:

I am not thrilled about some of the photos. I am suggesting alternatives for the river with the kayak.

Email, September 6, 2:03 pm

The service photos

The coaching and osteopathy ones in particular.

« Je regarde encore les onglets de services et les photos et ce n'est pas vraiment ce que j'espérais, en particulier pour le coaching et l'Osteo les photo ne m'emballent pas du tout. »

TRANSLATION:

I am still looking at the services tabs and the photos, and it is not really what I was hoping for. Especially for the coaching and the osteopathy, the photos do not excite me at all.

Email, September 8, 11:44 am

The right to use images from her old site

Settled: she purchased those images and is providing them.

« Je ne demande si j'ai le droit de réutiliser les mêmes images de Wix, le bébé est super adorable aussi. »

TRANSLATION:

I am wondering whether I have the right to reuse the same images from Wix. The baby is really adorable too.

Email, September 8, 11:44 am

A service that was missing

It existed on her old site and had disappeared from the new one.

« Je vois que tu as retiré ostéo/physio avec discussion inspirée. C'est un de mes services favoris! »

TRANSLATION:

I see you removed osteo and physio with inspired discussion. That is one of my favourite services!

Email, September 8, 11:44 am

A service she no longer wants to promote

She has the training but does not wish to push it.

« Je ne suis pas sûre de vouloir afficher la Santé pelvienne, j'ai une formation, mais je ne veux pas vraiment pousser la rééducation périnéale en clinique, le coaching me passionne plus. »

TRANSLATION:

I am not sure I want to display Pelvic Health. I have the training, but I do not really want to push perineal rehabilitation at the clinic. Coaching is what I am passionate about.

Email, September 8, 11:44 am

3 What she is asking to have built

These are not corrections. They add pages and change what the site needs to lead with.

Coaching becomes a second activity, and it is hers

This is the most important change in the file. Coaching is no longer one service among others carried by a colleague: she wants to build her own client base and be able to work remotely. The site structure has to carry two activities, not one.

« Je tente de monter une clientèle de coaching pour moi aussi, pas juste Nicole, question de pouvoir offrir des services en ligne quand je serai au Panama ou de chez moi un jour par semaine ou je n'ai pas envie d'aller au bureau. »

TRANSLATION:

I am trying to build a coaching client base for myself as well, not just for Nicole, so that I can offer services online when I am in Panama, or from home one day a week when I do not feel like going to the office.

Email, September 7, 9:20 am

A biography page and a coaching page

She supplied the material: a bilingual deck and photos. Her coaching brand has a name, « La Vie en Mauve », which appears nowhere on the site.

« Voici quelques photos supplémentaires de moi et de la clinique qui pourraient être utiles de plus qu'un remue méninge d'idées crues en power point en deux langues sur mon coaching pour donner du volume et aider la création de la page biographie et coaching. »

TRANSLATION:

Here are some additional photos of me and of the clinic that could be useful, plus a raw brainstorm in a slide deck, in two languages, about my coaching, to add substance and help create the biography and coaching page.

Email, September 7, 9:20 am

More ideas coming for the coaching page

She announces she will send more. Expected, not received yet.

« J'ai bien des idées pour rajouter à la page coaching. »

TRANSLATION:

I have plenty of ideas to add to the coaching page.

Email, September 6, 3:12 pm

A page for an employee

Never confirmed since. The structure must be able to host it without being rebuilt.

« J'aimerais peut être rajouter une page employée. A confirmer dans les prochains jours. »

TRANSLATION:

I would maybe like to add an employee page. To be confirmed in the coming days.

Email, September 4, 5:19 pm

Versions in other languages

She sees clients in French, English and Spanish, and her old site mixed all three. She offers to translate the content herself.

« Dis moi si tu as besoin de traductions. »

TRANSLATION:

Let me know if you need translations.

Email, September 7, 9:20 am

Her house in Panama, as possible content

She forwarded a newsletter she sent her own clients, saying it could be useful. It covers her shift toward longevity and whole health, and her house in Panama. None of it has been used: whether this belongs on a clinic site is still an open decision.

« Une communication récente à ma clientèle pour contenu potentiel. »

TRANSLATION:

A recent communication to my clients, as potential content.

Email, September 5, 8:11 am

4 What needs to be confirmed with her

Four points where her messages do not say the same thing, or where information is missing. None of them should be decided without her.

The wording for « Physio et ostéo, avec discussion inspirée »

Her old site gives only the title, no description at all. The current text is a proposal written for her, to be approved or rewritten.

What replaces the yoga photo

She writes that she is looking for a mountain pose, then attaches a photo of the sea to that same section. The two intentions do not say the same thing.

Photos of the shared spaces

The building front, the garden and the waiting room still come from her old site. These are shared spaces of the clinic rather than her own office, so they should still be accurate, but this has not been confirmed with her.

How far the mention of care for women goes

She corrected this text on September 6, then said she doubted the service on September 8. The text is kept as a reason for consultation, without appearing among the services offered.

5 Current state of the new site

What exists today. A complete home page, its supporting pages, and the plan document describing what comes next.

The home page

Seven chapters: her dual training, the six services, what happens during a session, the team, reasons for consulting, her view of health, and the clinic. Plus a full-width photo band carrying her purpose, and a contact form.

Four supporting pages

Privacy policy, terms, error page, and the plan document describing the twenty-nine pages foreseen.

The content

Every visible sentence traces back to a source: her old site, her emails, or the call. No prices shown, no restricted vocabulary, no testimonials.

The images

Her own photos, the ones she purchased for her old site, and a generated mountain image for the header. Every photo is prepared by script: rotation, crop, two formats, two sizes, capped file weight.

What is checked on every version

No horizontal overflow from 320 to 1920 pixels on any page, no console errors, cookie banner present and working, contrast of text over photos measured pixel by pixel, and a mobile performance measurement.

What remains before going live

Connect the form to a receiving service, remove the revision tool, point the addresses to her domain, produce the sitemap, lift the indexing block, and register the site with the search console.

6 Her previous site

The site she had before, reviewed page by page. What follows explains what the rebuild fixes.

Sixteen addresses, three languages mixed

French, English and Spanish share one site with no clear entry point, and one page written in English sits under a French address.

Template text never replaced

The home page still shows « Heading 2 ». The coaching page shows « Heading 3 » and « This is a Paragraph. Click on Edit Text ». A form there asks to « Get a Quote ».

An empty page

The events page contains nothing but the footer.

Two main headings per page

Every page carries two, which muddles how search engines read it.

An outdated description

The team page search description names two people who are no longer there.

No opening hours

Nowhere across the sixteen pages.

No logo, no sharing image

The header is plain text. A shared link shows no preview card.

Prices shown throughout

That was her choice; it has not been carried over to the new site.

A form with no privacy policy

The site collects information with no page governing it.

7 Materials

What she has provided, and what is still missing in order to build.

Received and usable

- Two photos of her current office, full resolution (September 8, 2:58 pm). One of the two is lying on its side and needs rotating.
- Five photos attached to the revision form, each tied to a specific section.
- Four full-resolution landscape photos: sea at dusk, turquoise water, forest canopy.
- A four-slide deck about her coaching, in French and English, containing her biography and a description of the clients she is aiming for.
- A recent biography photo, and the images from her old site.

Missing or blocked

- Six photos announced on September 7, placed on a sharing space that requires authentication: they cannot be retrieved as things stand.
- A real photograph of her colleague. The one provided is a generated image, low resolution, and cannot be presented as a photo of the person.
- The copy for the inner pages, beyond the home page.

8 Design direction

What guides the design: what she likes, what she has turned down, the bar to clear, and how the site is built.

What she likes, in her own words

« Tropical leaves, cascading vegetation, turquoise ocean, kayaks, birds. » She attached four photos to illustrate it, including her waterfront house in Panama. Her old site opened on misty mountains in a turquoise gradient.

What she has rejected so far

A yoga silhouette on a rock, stock-image kayaks, and the service photos in general. The common thread: they are generic images. Every time she has proposed a replacement, it has been a photo of her own.

What was rejected on direction

A first version judged too heavy on turquoise. A second judged too plain, with the comment that it had lost the life of the original site. The current version is the third, and it is the one that was kept: it takes the shape of her old site and executes it better.

The bar to clear

The reference point is work that would be awarded on a design gallery, not a good agency page. Three references were visited and measured on September 8: hevahealth.com for health set on real nature, and its two entry doors under the header; antaraspa wellness.com for its full-width green arc rising from the bottom instead of a straight section break; and sereniya.webflow.io for its night-green block with photos in heavily rounded cards.

What must not move

The copy is settled and traced to its source. The professional constraints in section 1 apply everywhere. The services structure, however, will still change: see section 3.

How the site is built

The HTML is never hand written. Each section of the page is a separate fragment, assembled by a Python script that produces the final page, and the images are prepared declaratively by a second script. A change is made in the fragment or in the script, never in the produced page, or it is lost on the next build.

Working document, current as of September 8, 2026. Quotations are reproduced exactly as she wrote them, typos included.
